Big Fight Coming.

It was announced at the headquarters of the mining congress today that the conservation policy would receive a big share of the attention of the congress, and an endeavor would be made to learn the true attitude of the west on this question. A bitter fight is ex-pected to result, as for weeks sentiment among the mining men has been actively forming in opposition to what are termed the "Taft-Wickersham-Nelson" policies concerning the development of water powers and disposition of mineral

It is thought not unlikely that Mr. Roosevelt himself may yield to the pressure that is being exerted throughout the western states to accept the invitation to be present and defend the policy which is causing widespread dissatisfaction, it is asserted, among all mining interests.

Added to the bur-dens already placed upon mining by the forest service, the regulations concern-ing the location and patenting of claims, and the use of timber, etc., the policy of taking the remaining resources from control of the states constitutes so radical a departure from the system under which western development has already gone forward, that it will re-tard all western development, and mining, as the principal western industry, will suffer most heavily."

Much Work Ahead.

According to the programme of the congress three Denver men, General Irv-ing Hale, Herbert S. Sands and Charles A. Chase, will give the report of a committee which is investigating the stan-dardization of electrical equipment in metal mining. Colonel A. G. Brownlee of Idaho Springs will address the convention as the representative of a com-mittee which is investigating the effect of the national forest service regula-tions upon mining in Colorado. While the ex-president has not said anything that in any way resembled an outspoken declaration in favor of any candidate, it is believed that he does not look unkindly upon the boom.

Dr. Samuel McCune Lindsey, former commissioner of education of Porto Rico, and now a professor of Columbia university, is the man who launched the new boom. He had a long and confidential talk today with Colonel Roosevelt and left with the air of a man well pleased with the turn things had taken.

Always a New Yorker.

Dr. Lindsey explained that, although New York in recent years, he has always retained his legal residence in this city and regularly voted here. The fact that he was talked of at one time as a possible candidate for governor of Pennsylvania was based, said Dr. Lindsey, on the false idea that Mr. Pinchot's legal residence was at Milford, Pa., where he has a country place.

Dr. Lindsey is a close friend of both Colonel Roosevelt and Mr. Pinchot, in common with other friends, he has been working quietly on the Pinchot boom for some time and first suggested to Mr. Pinchot himself the possibility that he might run. No definite answer, he said, was returned.

Colonel Roosevelt was told today that, in the opinion of Mr. Pinchot's friends, he could draw support from the same sources which had given power to Governor Hughes in past campaigns.

Mr. Pinchot is represented as in sympathy with the general trend of the Hughes progressive policy.

Mr. Pinchot is now on his way east and on his return will have another conference with his old chief. Almost as Wider was arrested the grand jury handed up an indictment against him, charging specifically that he stole three certificates, one of fifty shares and two others of twenty-five shares each of Ealtimore and Ohio stock, and that he disposed of them through the brokerage house of Dick Brothers on May 22 last.

At least three other officers of the bank had access to the safety deposit box in which the bank's securities were kept, and the box itself was brought daily to the offices of the bank, where it was kept in business hours. Brokers with whom Wider traded have said he called up from the bank to give them orders over the telephone.

The arrest today was due to the persistence with which detectives trailed Wider's wife. She was in consultation last night with Mrs. Ginsberg, whose husband, besides being Wider's lawyer, was also his neighbor.

Both Show Signs of Worry and Will Rely Upon Junior Massachusetts Senator for Knowledge of Conditions.

> BEVERLY, Mass., July 29.-Senator Winthrop Murray Crane of Massachusetts, who occupies in the senate a position similar to that of the Republican 'whip" in the house, was summoned to Beverly today by President Taft, and had a long talk with the chief magistrate. Senator Crane was asked by the president to make a trip through the west in the near future, going as far as Seattle. He will inquire into political conditions. The president is said to desire this information first hand. He has the utmost confidence in Senator Crane's political sagacity.

Quick and Effective.

Depends on One Man.

Inspector Dew probably is the only man in America tonight qualified to say with certainty whether the two suspects who salled on the Canadian Pacific liner Montrose from Antwerp on July 20 under the name of John Robinson and John Robinson, Jr., are Dr. Crippen and his typist, Ethel Claire Leneve. He will board the Montrose when she stops here to take her river pilot, seek out the two persons on board whom Captain Kendall believes are Crippen and Miss Leneve, and if he clinches the captain's suspicions, the so-called "Robinson" will be arrested by the Canadian police officers who are waiting here with warrants, charging Crippen with the murder of an unknown woman. His companion will be held as an accessory. The senator is noted for the quiet manner in which he accomplishes the most difficult tasks. In the last session of congress Mr. Taft relied absolutely upon the junior senator from Massachusetts and often made him the means of communicating the administration's views to the upper branch of congress. In selecting an emissary to the west, the

In selecting an emissary to the west, the president naturally turned to Senator Crane. The senator already has made a few quiet trips of observation, and discussed what he had learned with the president today.

Chief McCarthy of the Quebec police, who met Dew here today, says he is confident the suspicions of the Montrose's skipper will prove correct.

The wireless station here resounded all day with messages between the Canadian authorities, the Scotland Yard Inspector and the captain of the Montrose.

Another significant move made by the president today and of almost equal importance with the proposed mission of Senator Crane, was the announcement that Mr. Taft has canceled all of the engagements, tentative and otherwise, that Cancels Engagements. that Mr. Taft has canceled all of the engagements, tentative and otherwise, that he had made in different parts of the country for this fall. Important affairs of the administration, it was said, would keep the president busily engaged at Beverly and Washington until November. Whether the cancellation of the numerous engagements for the fall means a re-"I cannot answer any of your questions."

NEW YORK, July 29.—A frail little man with grey eyes and hollow cheeks, in whose manner and presence there was nothing to suggest that single-handed he would be difficult for the president to travel through the doubtful states in September and October without being drawn into the campaign or at least having his speeches construed into political utterances. In a speech at Rockland, Mc., the other day, Mr. Taft said he did not believe a president of the United States had a right to talk politics.

Possible Exceptions.

In the list of wholesale cancellations announced today there were three omissions. The president will go to Provincetown, Mass., on August 5, to review the Atlantic battleship fleet and to speak at Atlantic battleship fleet and to speak at the dedication of the pilgrims' monument. He has left open the question of whether or not he will speak at the National Conservation congress, which meets in St. Paul, September 5-7, and at the unveiling of the Reed monument at Portland, Me., on August 11. The chances are that the president will go to St. Paul.
